Dear Members,

In the last year, American Whitewater led efforts to designate new Wild and Scenic Rivers across the country as part of an effort to celebrate the 50th Anniversary of the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act. In Montana, 21 miles of East Rosebud Creek were designated Wild and Scenic last August. This spring, over 620 miles of rivers were designated as Wild and Scenic Rivers when the John D. Dingell, Jr. Conservation, Management, and Recreation Act passed through Congress and was signed by the President. This was all made possible by your support, assistance, and comments filed over the past year. This package of public lands and waters protections enjoyed incredibly broad public support, allowing committee members to feel comfortable bringing this to a vote as one of the first actions of a new Congress. Our community's strong showing of public support pushed this bill to the forefront and is a large reason it became law. It's a big win for the American people, who value their public lands and waters, and a huge success for American Whitewater.

With a special thank you to Charlie Walbridge, longtime American Whitewater Board Member, we established our first endowment to support safety education and outreach in 2018. At American Whitewater, we feel that the best form of safety education is good information about rivers and their difficulty. Safe paddling depends on good judgment, and this depends, in turn, on solid information. Our safety education and outreach endowment ensures that, over the long-term, additional staff resources can be allocated to manage and maintain our safety program. Additional donations to this endowment are being accepted and it's our aim to build this fund over time.

The board and staff of American Whitewater spent a great deal of time developing a strategic framework for the organization emphasizing a science-based approach to protect what we love, whitewater rivers! When we spend more time on rivers, we become better stewards and better advocates for their protection. Our vision is that our nation's remaining wild and free-flowing rivers stay that way, our developed rivers are restored to function and flourish, that the public has access to rivers for recreation, and that river enthusiasts are active and effective river advocates. To view our strategic framework visit, www.americanwhitewater.org > our organization > about AW > strategic framework.

Today, American Whitewater is stronger than ever with 83 cents on every dollar going to support program related activities. Thanks to an organization-wide effort to provide transparency and operate efficiently, Charity Navigator, America's largest independent charity evaluator, awarded American Whitewater with our ninth consecutive 4-star rating. Receiving four out of a possible four stars indicates that American Whitewater adheres to good governance and other best practices that minimize the chance of unethical activities and consistently executes our mission in a fiscally responsible way. Only 2% of the nonprofits Charity Navigator rates have received nine consecutive 4-star evaluations.

The key to our success is the strong backing of our members; it is only through your support that we can continue to take the long view on river stewardship. As we look to the future, we appreciate the importance of rivers and their role in supporting the health and well being of the paddling community. At American Whitewater, we remain committed to giving back to these special places through our river stewardship program and appreciate your support of this important work.

OUR WORK, 2018

Restoring Flows and Creating Opportunities to Paddle

Across the country, we negotiated and advocated for more whitewater releases, more water in rivers, removal of dams, better beta, and secure access for generations to come.

Flow Restoration

Agreements Reached:

Green River (NC), Weber (UT)

Collaboratively Managed Access:

21 Rivers, 250.1 Miles

Dams Defeated: Mascoma (NH), Skykomish (WA)

Access & Enjoyment

New and Restored River Access:

Sullivan Creek (WA), Tuolumne Ward's Ferry Take-out (CA)

Lawsuits Won Defending Whitewater Boating Flows

& Access: Green River (VT) - Requires scheduled whitewater releases and sets precedent that under the Clean Water Act, whitewater boating is a legitimate existing use to be protected.

Protecting Public Lands and Rivers

On public land across the country, we worked to protect rivers and the landscapes they inhabit. We helped introduce Wild and Scenic and other conservation designations, worked to protect pristine watersheds from mining, and fought back against bad policy.

Improving River Policy

Delivered 2500+ Comments to Agencies and Representatives:

Through our outreach efforts, our members sent comments to key decision makers about designating Wild and Scenic Rivers, forest planning, and positive legislation for public lands.

River Protections

New Wild and Scenic Rivers:

East Rosebud Creek 20 miles (MT)

Wild and Scenic Legislation Introduced:

Oregon Wildlands 256 miles; Lower Farmington and Salmon Brook 62 miles (CT); Emery County 63 miles (UT)*

New Wild and Scenic Eligible Rivers:

Flathead National Forest 24 rivers, 284 miles

State Wild and Scenic: Mokelumne 37 miles (CA)

STEWARDSHIP

National

American Whitewater's approach to tackling national policy issues continues to become more sophisticated and our community continues to step up to be the voices our rivers need, a successful combination that gives us a say in the way our whitewater rivers are managed and protected. In 2018 we helped to designate new Wild and Scenic Rivers and set the stage for many more, empowered our community to secure more Wild and Scenic protections by participating in Forest Service Planning efforts, fought back against attacks on the Clean Water Act, pushed for legislation that would benefit recreation on public lands, and pushed back against rule changes that would curtail the public's ability to have a say in how their lands and rivers are managed. We went to bat for our important places last year, and working together with our many great partners, we found ways to succeed at a national level. We could not have done it without your engagement and dedication to the rivers we love to float.

Mid-Atlantic

When a call went out in 2018 for ideas about improving recreation in National Parks, American Whitewater answered the call and requested improved river access in several parks in the Mid-Atlantic region. We also secured a formal portage trail around Millville Dam on the Shenandoah River (VA) and completed and delivered paddler surveys to river managers on the Youghiogheny (MD) and Russell Fork (VA/KY) rivers to enhance access and flows, respectively. With parking space becoming an increasing issue at the Upper Yough take-out, we raised $5,000 for the Town of Friendsville to expand the hard surface parking area, creating a long-term solution.

American Whitewater implemented and analysed a study on the Russell Fork River (VA/KY) to make sure paddlers have a voice in potential changes to this river's historic whitewater recreation releases. | Photo by Sarah Ruhlen

Northern Rockies

After years of work helping to lead a coalition advocating for protecting East Rosebud Creek, in 2018 we celebrated the first Wild and Scenic River designation in Montana in over 40 years. We also celebrated 284 miles of new Wild and Scenic eligibility protections on the Flathead National Forest, based in large part on our research, documentation, and advocacy. We continued our Forest Planning work across the Northern Rockies, advocating for new wild and scenic eligibility protections for hundreds of miles of streams in the Lochsa, Clearwater, and Salmon River watersheds in Idaho and we also negotiated a new agreement for recreational flow releases on the Weber River in Northern Utah.

Northeast

In the Northeast in 2018, we protected access and flows across the region, and helped lay the groundwork to secure Wild and Scenic designations for the Lower Farmington and Salmon Brook rivers early in 2019. On the Green River we successfully challenged restrictions by the Vermont state agency that would have largely eliminated whitewater boating opportunities, and established that whitewater recreation is an existing use on the Green River protected under the Clean Water Act during hydropower relicensing. We also protected access to the Contoocook River in Henniker (NH) and continued our advocacy for restored flows on dewatered reaches of the Connecticut River (MA/NH.VT), Merrimack River (MA), West Canada Creek (NY), and Mongaup River (NY).

California

American Whitewater had Wild and Scenic success at the state level in 2018, and in California helped secure permanent California State Wild and Scenic Rivers protection for 37 miles of the Mokelumne River below Salt Springs Dam, advocating for the extraordinary whitewater recreational values found throughout the watershed. We played a key role in securing $12 million in capital improvements for the Wild & Scenic Tuolumne River take-out at Ward's Ferry Bridge through the Don Pedro Hydropower relicensing process. These improvements will include parking spaces, vault toilets, a vehicle service road, hardened pedestrian access trails on both sides of the river and an elevated hoisting platform for whitewater rafts. In addition to these capital improvements there will be on-site personnel and maintenance for the lifetime of the hydropower license. We partnered with Friends of the River to produce the film "You Can't Dam Your Way to Paradise," promoting the protection of the 7,000-acre San Joaquin River Gorge Recreation Area which is threatened by the Temperance Flat Dam Proposal. After 18 years of American Whitewater advocacy, a new hydropower license order issued December of 2018 provides boatable base flows throughout the year on the North Fork Feather River. The runs on this section consist of the Class V upper run, Poe Dam to Bardees Bar, and the Class IV lower run, Bardees Bar to the Poe Powerhouse.

In 2018, American Whitewater produced the short film, "You Can't Dam Your Way to Paradise," to inspire the movement to stop the proposed Temperance Flat Dam project from flooding the San Joaquin River Gorge Recreation Area. | Film shot and directed by Ben Cowan and Taliesin Black-Brown of Zephyr Visuals

Pacific Northwest

Looking back on 2018, our efforts to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act by pushing mature legislative efforts across the finish line benefited the Pacific Northwest in a big way. We continued to protect the beauty and rugged nature of the Rogue Region with 256 new miles of Wild and Scenic Rivers including the Molalla and Elk Rivers, and tributaries critical to the health of the lower Rogue River. We successfully helped cancel two proposed hydropower projects on whitewater rivers in Washington State, the South Fork Skykomish and Similkameen. We partnered in the effort to close 340,079 acres in the Methow River watershed to new mining claims and we launched a process to ensure recreation is considered as a part of the Klamath Dam removal project, one of the largest river restoration projects in recent history.

Southern Rockies

Across the Southern Rockies American Whitewater continues to play a critical role in adding protections for instream flows in rivers and for the watersheds they flow through. In 2018, we played an integral role in the negotiations that lead to the drafting of the bill that would become part of the John Dingell Act, designating 63 miles of Labyrinth and Desolation Canyons on the Green River (UT) as Wild and Scenic. Also included was a Recreation Area (389,731 acres) and Wilderness (661,445 acres) for Emery County, Utah including land around the San Rafael River and Muddy Creek. We continued our collaborative approaches to managing for recreation on the Dolores (CO/UT) and Upper Colorado (CO) Rivers, protecting and restoring boatable flows, and also launched flow preference surveys and boatable days analysis for Stream Management Plans in the Rio Grande and St. Vrain river basins.
